> Right Punch on the Solar Plexis, Following a Rain of Blows, Too Much for the Lewiston Man.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 7 .- Marvin Hart, of Louisville, knocked out Dick O'Brien, of Lewiston, Me., in the third round of what was scheduled to be a twen ty-round contest before the Empire Athetic Club in this city to-night. Hart had the advantage of his antagonist in both height and reach and the men were about evenly matched in weight. The Louisville fighter forced things in every round, and the knockout blow, a right punch to the solar plexus, came after a hot mix-up, during which O'Brien was unable to land effectively, while Hart sent rights and lefts to his opponent's face and body with such rapidity that it was impossible to keep count of them.

In the first round both men were very careful and not a blow of any consequence was struck. The second round was decidedly in Hart's favor, and though no damage was done he landed frequently on O'Brien. The latter seemed unable to get past Hart's guard. In the third round Hart began business as soon as the gong sounded, and seemed determined to finish to the most decisive defeat an outside team his man at once. He rushed O'Brien all around the ring, landing rights and lefts to the jaw and body so rapidly that it was impossible to keep track of them. A stiff blow to the jaw sent O'Brien down for prove such poor players. Manager Finch, nine seconds, and when he came up he clinched and was so groggy that the referee, George Siler, of Chicago, had trouble | mitted that his aggregation was not the in pulling him away from Hart, who seemed almost exhausted from his own efforts. The men had hardly broken when Hart rushed at O'Brien and landed a right punch on the solar plexus, knocking him | tunity to do a little barnstorming during down and out.

Alleged Unjust Decision. CHICAGO, April 7.-Kid Carter, of Brooklyn, was given an apparently undeserved decision over Al Weinig, of Buffalo, at the end of a six-round contest here tonight. Weinig's advantage appeared so decided that it was hard to see how any one but an incompetent or dishonest referee could have given Carter the verdict. Innings Pitched-By Heisman, 4; by Cur- At the final gong Carter was covered with the visiting team was even weaker than blood and seemed barely able to stand up, so weak had he become from the severe came through the fight practically without a scratch, and when he heard the referee decide against him he became frantic, but his appeal for a reversal of the decision

As soon as the men stepped to the center of the ring at the commencement of the first round Weinig reached Carter's face blood. Carter clinched, but Weinig fought him off, and on the break landed a right on Carter's ear. Carter began to play for to take the lead with constant left jabs and short right hooks. The same tactics were used by both men in the second round and Weinig's lead became more marked. third round, landing several hard body blows that weakened Weinig perceptibly. Weinig came up for the next round, however, in good shape, and pounded Carter all over the ring. There was a great deal and the referee had considerable trouble in separating the men, but Weinig had the best of what little fighting was done. The sixth round was all Weinig's, Carter being unable to land a clean blow. Carter, becoming desperate toward the end of the ound, in his efforts to land a telling blow left himself unprotected, and Weinig landed repeatedly with both hands, scoring so often that the Brooklyn man was decidedly groggy when they ceased hostilities. The decision appéared to be as big a surprise o Carter as it was to the audience In the preliminary Luke Shea, of Louisville, was knocked out in two rounds by Yale Showed Little Knowledge of Game-Many Brilliant Plays Made by the Indianapolis Men.

The five young men who wear the insignia of Yale on their basketball uniforms were humiliated in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium last night when they were forced to submitever met in this city, Indianapolis winning by a score of 59 to 1. It hardly seemed possible that a team from Old Eli should who is also captain of the Yale team, ad-'varsity five and is only known as the Law School team, the players of that department of the great university seizing the opporspring vacation without expense. Finch was not in the game, but Dibble and Sterns, the two forwards, are both 'varsity players. The other three men are substitutes. Yale showed little knowledge of the game when Indianapolis used trick plays, something that was done almost continuously. The defense of the wearers of the blue was as weak and tame as the sparring exhibition given by Deeder and Anding between the two halves. The aggressive work of their defensive play and they did not come close to the basket when they made attempts to throw goals from field. They only had a few trials at the basket in the first half, while in the second half they had but two trials, so well did the Indianapolis players guard their goal. OLD GRUDGE WIPED OUT. Y. M. C. A. played a fast game, and, being imbued with the idea of wiping out the defeat at the hands of Yale two years ago, with a left-hand jab which brought the Indianapolis players kept up an incessant fire at the basket and ran the score to enormous proportions. The first half they played under the American League Weinig's body, but the latter soon began ended 20 to 0 in favor of Indianapolis, and it was nearly the end of the second half before Yale succeeded in tallying one point, a goal from foul. Y. M. C. A. displayed clever team work throughout the contest, and many of the goals from field were made on most difficult chances. Hester and Harden made many brilliant plays, throwing goals from midfield and at difficult angles. McGaughey also did well in the spectacular work and six times tossed the ball into the basket. Many of the goals from field were
